SHRINERS' COMMITTEE.

Shriners' committee met Saturday afternoon at Masonic hall; a good attendance, of whom a majority were ladies, present. The finance committee reported satisfactory progress. Total amount pledged and partly paid up, about $640, which included the $100 contributed by the board of trade. Chairman Albright reported all arrangements made for the entertainment to be given Wednesday evening, May 1, at the skating rink. Mr. Campbell, chairman of the entertainment committee, called for men to volunteer to assist with saw and hammer in putting up booths at Casa Verdugo. Any one who will volunteer to assist in this work, is requested to report to Mr. Campbell. Quite a discussion took place in regard to badges for the visitors. The ladies were requested to make the selection from a number of samples of ribbons which had been secured, but a decision was not reached and the matter was left with them to be reported on at the next meeting. The debate over the trend to be inscribed on the badges was quite lively, but it was finally settled in favor of the motion made by Mr. Parker, that it be as follows:

SHRINER'S DAY,
May 6th, 1907.
Casa Verdugo, Glendale and Tropico, California.

Mr. Parker, of the committee, to confer with the Pacific Electric people in reference to an attempt to obtain some concession in regard to fares to and fro between Tropico, Glendale avenue and Casa Verdugo, reported that he had not personally seen the officials of the road, but that he hoped to do so and be able to report at the next meeting. He also reported, as President of the Berry Growers' association, that he had made arrangements for the delivery of 2000 boxes of berries (donated by the association) at Casa Verdugo. Mr. Goode, of the committee on providing oranges, reported that the same would be forthcoming. The ladies of the committee favored a separate temporary organization and will take entire charge of the collection and delivery of flowers to the guests of the day.

There was an informal discussion of many details of the work and the committee adjourned to meet this (Saturday) afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A GREAT FEAST OF FLOWERS.

The coming May Festival and Rose Carnival, which is to be held in Morley's Grand Avenue Rink, Los Angeles, with its myriad of electric lights, beginning May 1st and continuing five days, promises to be one of the most interesting flower shows ever held in the West. The Southern California Horticultural Society, under whose auspices the exhibition will be held, have been working for many months arranging for this exhibit and interesting the florists and plant growers to exert their very best efforts to make this show a memorable one.

A large orchestra will be in attendance and the display of rare plants and orchids will be well worth the visit of those who appreciate the glorious climate of California with its wonderful productive possibilities. The flowers were never better than they are this season, and a great carnival has been planned because of their excellence.

In addition to the display will be special features, including a beautiful May Queen accompanied by her Fairies, who will proclaim all a welcome and bid the May dancers to revel in their games and May-Pole Dances in Flowerdom.

THE RAILROAD QUESTION.

We told you a week or two ago just what we knew about the railroad question. Briefly, it was—nothing! And we still know it. The great dailies can continue to tell you what Messrs. Huntington, Harriman and Smith are going to do, but this veracious journal cannot afford as yet, to employ a mind reader. But there is a good deal of talk in various quarters from time to time, which, altho' of no great value possibly, is yet matter of interest and no doubt has in it at least a grain of truth. This, however, is a matter of fact. Two weeks or so ago, certain high officials of the Los Angeles Pacific, (formerly the Sherman-Clark combination—now Harriman) which road runs along Sunset Boulevard to Hollywood and Santa Monica, visited Glendale. They drove over from Glendale and went with one of our Glendale citizens all over the line of a proposed road starting out from Sunset Boulevard, coming northward across the river up thro' the Richardson property to a junction with the Salt Lake road on Glendale avenue near San Fernando road. Thence they drove thro' Glendale, Verdugo Canon and La Canada to Devil's Gate, near to which point is the terminus of the Altadena branch of the Salt Lake system. The ride seemed to be a revelation to them and they expressed themselves as delighted with the prospect and possibilities of this section. Since it seems to be pretty generally admitted that Mr. Harriman controls the Los Angeles Electric and the Salt Lake roads, the possibility and feasibility of connecting the two in one grand circle seems not altogether visionary.

On the East Side, the project of an extension of the Los Angeles Railway company's tracks from a junction with the Eagle Rock road, up the Verdugo road through Glendale to Forest Grove (formerly Verdugo) park, is not at all dead, nor quite asleep. It is said that arrangements have been made satisfactory with Mr. Glassell and the only hitch as to right of way now is north of Fourth street, and this can be secured, altho' possibly not for the lines preferred by the railroad people. The committee in charge of the matter are persistently endeavoring to get a definite proposal from the railroad company and are now assured that it is only delayed by Mr. Huntington's inability, as yet, to personally inspect the proposed route.

The La Canada road down thro' Sycamore canon seems to be hung up indefinitely.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON CLUB.

The Tuesday Afternoon club enjoyed a splendid meeting in the library and club room, which for the occasion had been made most attractive with many roses and orange blossoms.

Regular business was quickly disposed of, and a call for "Wayside Notes" was responded to as follows: "Science," Mrs. Edgar Leavitt; "Books and Literature," Mrs. Lillian S. Wells; "Politics," Mrs. Edgar W. Pack and Mrs. E. D. Goode.

The President requested the members to be present at Casa Verdugo on "Shriners' Day," with generous donations of flowers for the guests of the day.

Mrs. E. M. McClure brought nineteen bolts of red ribbon to be cut into badges six inches in length, ready for printing. Volunteers were called for the work to be done the following day at the home of Mrs. Pack.

Mrs. Lillian Wells gave a detailed and comprehensive report of the year's library work ending February 26th, touching upon the various phases of the work, the expenses and vigorous growth of the library under the direction of the Tuesday Afternoon club, until now the city should for various reasons assume the responsibility of the Glendale Free Library.

The program was in charge of Ellen Brown Newcourt, and she gave a short account of the life of the poet, Lord Byron, who was the topic for the day. Mrs. Brown, representing the Friday Morning Club, read selections from Byron's poems as follows: "The Dream," "Well, thou art happy" and "Farewell."

A fine reading was rendered by Mrs. Claudio Hazen White, "The Marquis of Carabas," with a most amusing little thing as an encore, called "Fraid to die."

Mrs. Newcomb closed the program with a very clever original poem which she had written about the State Federation pin, "Where It Is? The Pin," which won laughter and applause. It might be stated here that the pins arrived on Tuesday evening, and are actually in possession of the club secretary, Mrs. C. B. Guenthart.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Pack made the happy announcement that Mr. A. K. Crawford (C street) will donate to the club $50.00 in cash toward the purchase of a club lot. The news was received with applause and cheers for Mr. Crawford.

The club will next meet May 14th, when the works of Byron will be the subject, Mrs. E. W. Pack having charge of the program.

Glendale Bonds

The sale of the $5000 issue of bonds of the City of Glendale for the sum of $6047, is a notable occurrence. This figure amounts to a premium of something more than $25 on every bond. The purchasers are Adams-Phillips Co. of Los Angeles. The bonds are forty in number, for $125 each, run forty years and bear six per cent interest.

This evidence of the gilt-edge character of our securities should be very gratifying to our people, to the majority of whom will come a natural regret that the bonds for the city hall did not carry also. Had they been authorized, there is no doubt but that we should have received at least $20,000 for the $17,500 issue, and as a result the prospects for a lively summer in Glendale would have been better than they are now. However, "all things come to him who waits." The city hall will come the next time we try.

A Glance Backward

There was a time when the sole object of life in this valley of ours was not to sell real estate, or do business along the lines that so naturally open up in the wake of the rustling agent; when the owner of a piece of land from one acre upward, had visions of other things than town lots, and made calculations upon raising other things than prices. And he raised them, too. We had hundreds of acres in fruit trees—apples, peaches, pears, prunes, apricots and a few oranges, and the Los Angeles market was largely supplied from this portion of the San Fernando valley. There was not much money in it, 'tis true, but the soil was put to its natural use. Then came the railroad and the town lot fever; but happily came the home builder also, and the orchards were neglected, the trees died, the surveyor succeeded the plowman and stakes were planted instead of potatoes.

But what does this lead up to? the reader asks. Why, simply this: there is too much land lying idle; the crop of weeds is too luxuriant; too many trees are dying of neglect. It is a great waste and Southern California is paying for it. New orchards have not been set out to replace the old trees that have died; the vineyards are nearly all gone and neither wine nor raisins produced here as they once were.

The season is upon us when fruit should be served plentifully upon every table; but with the exception of oranges, berries and melons, the Los Angeles dealers will bring the bulk of the fruit consumed here from Central California, the neighborhood "around the bay," and our consumers will pay the freight.

The idea that a town lot which is on the market should be a waste of barrenness or a patch of weeds, is a peculiar one, but it seems to prevail very generally. We do not believe that a cultivated bit of land, even if it does happen to be only 50x150, is any less attractive than one that bears all the ordinary evidences of neglect; but we might get the impression that such is the case by glancing at the country that has been platted out for lots.

It is to be hoped that the high prices for fruit and produce likely to prevail during the coming summer, will suggest to the owners of unimproved lots in large or small subdivisions, the feasibility of making them productive. It is little less than criminal to take a large tract of productive land and turn it into a wilderness by sticking it full of stakes, giving evidence thereby that its usefulness is ended until such time as the home builder may happen to clear up a patch in it.

In this and in every other community in Southern California at present, there is enough land lying idle upon which to produce an abundance of fruits and vegetables for home consumption, and many thousands of dollars will be paid out to other and more productive sections.

The possibilities of gardening are being too generally neglected, altho the abundant rainfall of the past winter has made it possible to do much in this line. If any man is idle "waiting for something to turn up," let him get to work, and if there be possessors of idle lots or acres, let them bestir themselves, for in this and kindred communities the demand for fruit and produce is getting rapidly ahead of the supply.

Hon. H. H. Markham, one time congressman from this district and later governor of California, came into court in Los Angeles the other day, charged with having appropriated to his own use the funds of a mining company of which he was president and general manager. And Mr. Markham's defense was a plea of bankruptcy! Yet we presume he will manage to keep out of the poor house and continue in the luxury of being one of Pasadena's "leading citizens" for the rest of his days. Meanwhile his former partners can pucker up their mouths and prepare to whistle!

Somebody in Washington has fixed up a presidential ticket consisting of the names of Taft and Hughes. This is quite all right; and while we are not particular about the tail end of the ticket, we are satisfied to have it as above. From this on until we change we shall favor Taft and Hughes as Republican nominees for president and vice-president respectively.

Mayor Harper and Supt. Mulholland have informed a committee of San Fernando Valley ranchers, that they have no present intention of attempting to restrain them from the use of water from their own wells. With the heavy rainfall of the present season filling, as it doubtless has done, the underground reservoirs, there is no danger whatever of the shortage of the water supply of the city of Los Angeles during the coming summer; and there seems to be no reason why our neighbors should not plant an increased acreage, with every prospect of reaping in full the reward of their industry.

The probability is that the Los Angeles Normal School will not be removed from Los Angeles, even should the present site be sold; which seems to be uncertain, as there were no bidders when the property was offered last Saturday.

NEW YORK MUSINGS.
(By Glendalian)

II

Thanks to the force of public opinion, the abuse of a divided police force in New York has been ended by the passage of a law which places all control in the hands of the commissioner of police. The new commissioner, Gen. Bingham, since accepting office, has insisted on this power and by dint of incessant hammering away, appealing to the people, to the press, to the precedents of other large cities, his measure has finally passed despite the organized opposition of the inspectors and detective interests, who have heretofore enjoyed and made the most of their independence or authority. In fact, it is rather loudly whispered that some of the noble captains, whose regime now passes, have used excellent judgment (and other things) in their real estate investments and have shown fine business capacity in amassing tidy little fortunes. Chief Bingham will instil a new spirit in the force, for from top to bottom henceforth, merit, and merit alone, will determine promotion. With corrupt department heads even the "finest police in the world" will deteriorate; with a head of the Bingham stamp they will maintain and enhance a fine reputation.

Few people realize what it means to supply water to a big city. Los Angeles is facing the possible expenditure of from forty or fifty millions. New York is committed to $101,000,000 to bring water from the Catskill mountains. Contract for the first portion of aqueduct construction about ten miles long and costing five or six million dollars will be awarded immediately. The reservoir in the mountains will be the largest in the world, several villages will have to be moved, railroad transplanted for several miles and numerous roads blotted out in carrying out the work. The 20-year bonds issued to raise the money are, however, finding so poor a sale that it is believed the law will have to be changed extending the period to fifty year terms.

Large appropriations are made every year by the city of New York for the extension of the Hudson River embankment roadway, called Riverside Drive. Portions of it are in progress as far north as 150th street, the ultimate object being to connect it with the Speedway now in operation on the west bank of the Harlem. The amount of heavy masonry in the way of retaining walls, arches over cross-town streets, and the filling required make it a gigantic work. When completed it will certainly be a monument to the wisdom and farsightedness of the present generation of New Yorkers, just as the Thames embankment bears witness to the sagacity of its projectors and constructors of a generation ago. Here the autoist and humble pedestrian alike may enjoy the view of the magnificent Hudson, breathe the purest air and cover with one sweep of the eye a landscape of contrasts ranging from the dense forest of Manhattan buildings with their rattling life and noise around and below, to the wooded heights of the peaceful Palisades stretching for miles into the distance on the opposite bank.

Among the cosmopolitan faces one meets in New York, that of the Italian laborer is one of the most frequent, when the subway and cars are carrying home their human freight. Whenever there is excavation, digging and preparatory work of any kind for the big blocks continually being erected in Manhattan, Italians are to be found in swarms. The majority are decent, harmless men, lively and quick tempered in accord with their southern blood. But among their local colonies several black sheep are ensconced who live on their violence and have long terrorized many of their countrymen. "Black Hand" tragedies occur and no one will report the perpetrator for fear of revenge; crimes by this class have been increasing and only recently two policemen have been killed by one of these desperadoes. At last, some one has struck on a bright idea—disarmament. It seems that almost every Italian carries either a firearm or an equally dangerous stiletto, and word has gone out to search every Italian laborer for these weapons. In two days over two hundred, maraudous tools were discovered and a drastic inquisition throughout the city is being continued which will happily rid the community of a serious menace. It is hoped that by such vigorous action as this, these ignorant immigrants (many of them unable to understand English) may be impressed with the fact that they are in a land ruled by law and order and that quarrels among themselves must hereafter be settled otherwise than by deadly weapons. One cannot but contrast such new citizens with the Japanese on the Pacific coast, now debarred from San Francisco, and wonder that our statesmen could find reason and policy in excluding a race so full of virtues, peace loving, sober and decent from our shores while taking no exception at the distinctly lower-grade European laborers of whom many of these Italians are a type.

I would like to tell about the opening of downtown church buildings for the shelter and recreation of young business women during lunch hours—an unspeakable boon for many—and probably forming the nucleus of permanent institutions for that hard working but somewhat neglected class; also of the movement of teaching attractive and valuable physical exercises to young school girls, approximating those always enjoyed by boys; of the provision of free day nurseries, under kindly and sympathetic management, for the children of mothers who have to go out to work during the day; and again of some of the benevolent and enlightened aid extended towards the crippled, the blind, the deaf and dumb, of this seething city—a universe in itself; but the subject is too vast. Perhaps a sketch of some of these altruistic institutions may form the subject of future letters from New York.—W. M.

EAGLE ROCK VALLEY.

This beautiful little valley is now at its best end proves a great attraction to the hundreds of people who visit it daily, riding out on the trolley and distributing themselves among the green hills near at hand. And it continues to be a scene of great activity and the work being done is in the nature of a transformation. Along the line of hills on the north side, particularly, the teams with plows and scrapers and the men who are making the cement sidewalks and curbs, are suggestive of an army of occupation, preparing the way for something or somebody that is to follow. And they are following. Half a dozen houses have been erected in the last month. The new school house (judging from exterior view) is apparently completed, and the walls of the new business block at the end of the track have been finished and the structure is being hurried to completion. This is a two-story building with pressed brick front, and will have three large store rooms on the ground floor, one of them to be occupied by the Bank of Eagle Rock, which is already organized, and for which a fireproof vault has been built. There is no evidence of distress in the real estate market and the agents of the various tracts are apparently satisfied with conditions.

The work done by the railroad recently, has helped very much to add to the general appearance of progress. The company's tracks are being ballasted by a large force of men; culverts have been put in to carry off the storm water and the street that was torn up by the construction of the railroad bed, has been graded and is generally in good condition.

N. E. A. CONVENTION.

The coming convention of the N. E. A. is one of California's best opportunities to advertise its resources and hospitality throughout the country. All the railway lines west and north of New Orleans, St. Louis and Chicago, have announced a special round trip rate of one fare plus $2.00. The ticket conditions allow stop-overs on both the going and returning trip. Tickets will be on sale from June 22nd to July 5, inclusive, and will be good for return to starting point until September 15th.

Enquiries are pouring in in unusually large numbers, regarding the convention, and already many requests have been made for hotel reservations in order not to be left out when the great mass of educators take possession of the city. There need be no fear, however, on this score, as the committee on hotels is making preparations to receive 30,000 visitors and will be able to house many thousands more.

GLENDALE MEETS WHITTIER

Glendale High went down to glorious defeat Friday last in their dual meet with the Whittier High School on the Whittier field, the score being 64 to 49. The Glendale points were made by Stine, Goodsell, C. Emery and H. Lehman. Stine and Goodsell were the particular stars of the meet. Emery is a comer in the hammer throw and shot put.

In the broad jump Goodsell made a phenomenal leap of twenty feet, but because of a fall it was not counted. Stine made a strenuous attempt to pull the relay team out of a bad hole, but the other fellows had too much lead for the plucky little sprinter.

Coach L. O. Thompson of Whittier College acted as referee and starter.

FOR RENT—Furnished house, five rooms, $22.20, on Fourth street; also another house partly furnished, five rooms, on A street. Inquire of Ezra F. Parker, First National Bank Bldg., Fourth and Brand Boulevard.

THE STUDENTS' CORNER.

That the great mass of the people are ignorant of the fascinating subject of astronomy is most curious fact. Many persons of intelligence, well-informed in regard to matters associated with the world in which we live, are content to remain in ignorance all their lives of the myriad of other worlds above, which they may see blazing down upon them whenever at night they turn their eyes upward. The difference between a planet and a star is unknown to many people who can by no means be classed among the ignorant. And there is no subject that will give more rich and satisfactory returns for a little study. The present is a very good time for the beginner in the study of this science, to take observations and attempt to locate some of the stars of the first magnitude. About 8 o'clock in the evening now is a very good time for an observation of the "other worlds than ours." The Great Dipper stands very nearly on its handle near the zenith, eastward of north. Nearly everybody knows that the last two stars in its bowl point toward the North star. Not so many are aware of the fact, that the handle points almost as directly to Arcturus, one of the brightest stars in the heavens. Then a line drawn almost directly through the last two stars comprising the handle and the rear part of the bowl will pass near Regulus, in the constellation Leo. It is in this constellation that we see in the fall of the year (November) so many "shooting stars" or "Ieons," made visible by the earth at that time passing through an orbit, a portion of which comes in contact with the field in which these interesting objects, made luminous by contact with the earth's atmosphere, are found. Hastening towards its setting in the southwest, is the great constellation Orion, not quite so conspicuous an object as it was a month or two ago, however. The three stars, sometimes called the "Yardstick," are in the belt of the great figure, and from the belt dangles his star sword. Rigel, a star of the first magnitude, is in the middle of the left foot of the hunter, and Betelgeuse, also of the first magnitude, is in his shoulder. Quite naturally the hunter is accompanied by his dogs. The greater one, off to the southeast of the sword, is the most brilliant star in the heavens, Sirius, the dog star, (Canis Major) which is supposed to be a sun a hundred times as large as the sun of our solar system. North of this great orb is Canis minor, the lesser dog, which is the brighter of the two stars that are really almost twin-like in their appearance. This is by no means all that is worthy of attention, but it may interest a few of our readers until we continue the subject in a future number.

LA CRESCENTA.

Mrs. Patterson, of the First National Bank of Los Angeles, spent Sunday at Fairmont.

Mrs. Francke and two children have left for Seattle to join Captain Francke. He is in that city being examined for the wreck of the steamship Dakota.

The La Crescenta Water company is laying six thousand feet of new galvanized iron four-inch pipe. Beginning at the mouth of the tunnel it will reach more than halfway to the company's reservoir.

Mrs. Helen Eaton has recently purchased the Adams ranch on Michigan avenue, ten acres, partly in oranges, two-story frame house. She has also bought the old Kimball ranch on Rosemont avenue. Twenty acres in olives and almonds.

School Census

School Census Marshal Samuel Fiske has turned in his report, showing a total of 429 pupils between the ages of 5 and 17 in the district. Seventeen of these are in attendance at the West Glendale school.

M. E. CHURCH NOTES.

The outing for Friday of this week for the Somes' place was called off because of the illness of Dr. Thomson, P. E.

The board of trustees of the church will meet in the pastor's study next Monday evening, April 29, at 8 o'clock. Any person having any matters to present to the board will be present.

A number of the ladies of the Ladies' Aid society met with Mrs. Will Talbot on Wednesday. The purpose of the meeting was work and was in every way a success.

At the choir meeting Wednesday evening there was a good attendance and splendid results with reference to the coming Sabbath, which will be manifest in the excellent character of music for that day.

On Sabbath morning the pastor will preach on the "Relation of Lodges to the Church."

In the evening "The Master Has Come and Calleth for Thee."

Our church services are all well attended, with the social means of grace a great delight. The music is especially fine.

Sunday school at 9:45: preach at 11 and 7:30. Class' meeting at noon. Epworth league at 6:30.

You are cordially invited to make your church home with us if not identified elsewhere.

Shriners' Entertainment Benefit

The performance at the skating rink next Wednesday evening for the purpose of adding to the fund for the Shriners' reception promises to be the event of the season. We have an undefinable feeling, amounting to a premonition, that to miss it will be an irreparable loss. A few tickets left.

TIN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Collins, who reside in one of the cosiest bungalows on Brand Boulevard, were most happily surprised at their home Thursday evening by a number of their friends who remembered that Mr. and Mrs. Collins were married just ten years ago. The popularity of this charming couple added much to the enthusiasm of arranging every detail of the happy surprise. Mrs. E. W. Richardson contributed a wealth of the Countess of Oxford roses, one of the latest and most beautiful of richly tinted pink roses. The generous arrangement of these beautiful roses and their delicate fragrance lent a charm to the scene. A course dinner was served, the place cards being dainty crimson tinted bells. The table decorations consisted of a large bowl of Countess of Oxford roses on a handsome centerpiece. Dainty buds of this lovely rose were arranged on the damask.

Following the dinner, at which a number of toasts and speeches were given, the guests assembled in the drawing room and enjoyed an amusing advertisement contest. The score being kept on bell-shaped cards. Mrs. Ernest Taylor secured the first prize, a handsome jardinere, and Mr. A. E. Stone, the consolation prize. A programme of vocal and instrumental music was rendered, a most pleasing feature being the solos and quartettes given by several of the gentlemen who are noted vocalists.

A number of handsome presents of brass, aluminum and tin were received.

The guests included Mrs. C. E. Manning of Pasadena, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Stone, Ocean Park; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Blocher, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Schrader, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Mock, secretary of the gas company, which purposes entering the valley, was present and gave a most instructive talk, which was followed with explanatory remarks and answers to numerous questions.

A committee was appointed, composed of Dwight Griswold, David Imler and E. W. Richardson, to confer with the citizens of Tropico, relative to the business proposition as given by the gas company and the respective terms.

A. W. Collins presented a brief report stating that the section of Brand Boulevard lying between Cypress street and Tropico avenue would soon be opened and improved. Ten thousand booklets advertising Tropico are being printed for distribution during the session of the Shriners' meet in Los Angeles.

A communication from the Good Roads committee of Los Angeles county was received relative to the enthusiastic encouragement received from the Tropico Good Roads committee.

Miss Kathryn Kilmer gave several of her very happy and pleasing recitations. This little lady is always accorded an enthusiastic ovation.

MISS EMMA HAGERTY AT PALM VILLA.

The condition of Miss Emma Hagerty, who was so seriously injured in the gas explosion which occurred in Los Angeles ten weeks ago, has improved to such an extent that she was removed to the home of her friend, Mrs. David Imler, at "Palm Villa" Wednesday. TEDDY BEAR.

There's a rustle in the air,
They are after Teddy Bear,
Don't you think you'd better hide
Brother Teddy!
Every bloomin' Bird of Prey.
That prefers the night to day,
Is a-swoopin' down upon you
Little Brother!

If your bacon you would save,
You had better hunt your cave,
You'd better be a-hiken for
Your mother!

See them swoopin' from afar,
There's one labeled "J. D. R."
And he's gettin' right foremenest
Teddy Bear.

There is vengeance in his eye,
He will never pass you by
Are you quite prepared to die
Brother Teddy!

Hear me, Teddy, are you deaf?
There's another—"J. D. F."
And he's loaded to the muzzle
For your kind.

You had better fade away
Run and fight another day—
Great Scott, Teddy! Are you blind!

Here a Labor union grafted
Is your scallopock sneakin' after!
Why this loud untimely laughter
Teddy-Bear?

HII! Look out there! What the plague,
Do you take this for, The Hague!
Stop them! Part them! Save the feathers!

Leave them in their altogethers
Are you there yet
Brother Teddy?
And a voice from out the rammas,
Lacking naught of vim or compass,
smote the air.

"Thanks, my dream of Peace is
